Course Description	When drawing, the important thing is to express yourself, and it is not necessarily important to draw well, but it is often difficult to draw well at first and people become uncomfortable with it. In this class, to make drawing more enjoyable, we use a method that engages the right brain rather than the left brain, which can be overly analytical. This approach aims to lower the barrier to drawing well. Once you are able to draw shapes easily, you will be able to use them to challenge yourself in a variety of imaginative ways. This course will be taught as a workshop, once a week for 10 weeks, lasting about 150 minutes (two 75 minutes classes). Students will present their drawings and provide feedback and discussion on their process. Feedback will be given. Rather than comparing or criticizing the final results, we will explore the process and what each participant has discovered.
Class plan based on course evaluation from previous academic year	All students will be able to come to the classroom, which will make it easier for them to comment on their work in progress. Also, everyone will be able to see and draw the models in the profile drawing class.
Course related to the instructor's practical experience (Summary of experience)	This course is taught by an instructor with practical experience. My field of specialization is oil painting, but in recent years I have been focusing on the study of life drawing and figure drawing. Although I am a graduate of a Japanese art university, I have spent many years teaching practical skills for entrance exams to art universities abroad, so I understand how to approach a wide range of art. I also have experience supervising Japanese editions of foreign drawing books, so I would like to make use of that know-how as well.
Learning Goals	By the end of this course, you will have acquired the five perceptions (edge, space, interrelationship, light and shadow, sensitivity to beauty (expression)) and be able to use them in whatever you draw. In order to master these, it is important to keep drawing repeatedly until you get used to them, just like playing sports or driving a bicycle. You will notice the beauty of space, intersecting edges, light and shadow, foreground and background, and even the ordinary scenery will come alive. This is the beginning of your creative process.

Required Textbook(s)	None
Other Reading Materials/URL	As there are no art supply shops near the university, lecturer will purchase art materials in bulk and sell them in the classroom. Most of these materials will also be used in Drawing Workshop 2. The following art materials should be purchased in the classroom on the first or second day. Please bring roughly 800 yen. -*Thick B3 size drawing paper, several sheets of thick B3 size paper need to be purchased in the classroom. for ¥20 each. -*Drawing paper pad (small, about A4) ¥110 -*Drawing pencils (1 each of HB, 3B, and 5B) ¥100 per pencil. -*Soft Eraser (Kneaded rubber) ¥200. -*Whiteboard pen (black) ¥20 -*Clear acrylic board (about B5 size) to make a drawing scale ¥110 (Available for loan in the classroom. If you want your own, you can buy one for ¥110) Items that you bring yourself. If you have any of the above art materials, bring them too. -Tissue paper -Box cutter Items to be lent in the classroom. -Mirror (Size visible from shoulder to head) You can borrow it at the art studio. -Easels -Wooden panels
Plagiarism Policy	In this workshop, you will observe a real object (3D) and make a drawing. This is the process of looking at a 3D object and converting it to a 2D drawing. It is forbidden to draw from photographs unless instructed to do so. This is because the photograph has already been replaced by a flat surface, and drawing from a photograph is like copying a flat object on a flat surface, which is not the same as drawing a 3D object.
