Semester	Spring 2025	Year Offered (Odd/Even/Every Year)	Every Year
Course Number	HIST/JPNA170
Course Title	Introduction to Japanese History
Prerequisites	None
Course Instructor	LEE, I-Zhuen Clarence	Year Available (Grade Level)	1
Subject Area	Japan Studies: History	Number of Credits	3
Class Style	Lecture	Language of instruction	English

(NOTE 1) Depending on the class size and the capacity of the facility, we may not be able to accommodate all students who wish to register for the course

Course Description	The purpose of this course is to provide an interdisciplinary introduction to both the premodern and modern aspects of Japanese History. We will study and think through selected aspects of Japanese history, thought, literature, and religion beginning from the earliest time to the contemporary period. The focus will be on significant developments and representative works. As you work through this class, always consider the following questions: What is Japan, and who says so?  The course will be mainly lecture-based with a section of each class allocated to open-ended Q&A. Students are expected to come prepared for discussion by completing the assigned readings before class.
Class plan based on course evaluation from previous academic year	Weaker students pointed to overwhelming workload. Instructor has tried to reduce the amount of reading and studying required for each session.  Due to the nature of the course ("History of Japan"), however, the material covered will continue to be from the prehistoric period to the present day. This is in order to ensure that students have the adequate background to pursue their studies in Japan related courses in iCLA.  Details about the group project will also be given early in the semester to prepare students for the work required for that
Course related to the instructor's practical experience (Summary of experience)	Component of the course.  None
Learning Goals	Concretely, after completing this course, you should be able to better interpret news and information about Japan. You will also be prepared for further study of Japan at iCLA and beyond.

Plagiarism Policy	Plagiarism is the dishonest presentation of the work of others as if it were one's own. Duplicate submission is also treated as plagiarism. Depending on the nature of plagiarism committed, you may fail the assignment and/or the course. Repeated acts of plagiarism will be reported to the University, which may result in additional penalties.  ChatGPT and other AI tools are not replacements for your original and critical thoughts. The ultimate goal of this course and any tool used to submit your assignments is to enhance your own learning and understanding, not to undermine it. Having AI write your paper therefore constitutes plagiarism, and will result in the failure of the assignment and/or the course.
Other Additional Notes (Outline crucial policies and info not mentioned above)	Smaller in-Class Tests: Four 50-minute tests consisting of short identifications/defining of key terms taken from lectures and readings, as well as multiple choice questions and map/image identifications. Except in the case of an emergency, no make-up tests will be given.  Final Examination: This is a sit-down examination. They may include multiple choice, matching, or short identifications, but will mainly be essay-based. Except for special cases, no make-up exams will be given. (More information will be given later in the semester.)
